

Popcorn song alternate verses

I looked out the window and what did I see?
Leaves are falling from the apricot tree.
Fall has brought me such a nice surprise.
Leaves are falling right before my eyes.
I can take a rake and make a pile.
One so big it will make you smile.
Then I'll jump on in, 'cause it's fun to me, when
Leaves are falling from the apricot tree.

I looked out the window and what do I see?
Snowflakes falling on the evergreen tree.
Winter's brought me such a nice surprise.
Snowflakes falling right before my eyes.
I can make a snowball, I know I can.
Three big snowballs make a big snowman.
I know it's really so, and I'm glad to see.
Snowflakes falling on the evergreen tree.

I looked out the window and what do I see?
Apricots growing on the apricot tree.
Summer's brought me such a nice surprise.
Apricots growing right before my eyes.
I can pick a handful & make a pie.
The tree's so big it can touch the sky.
I'm so happy I could shout with glee
Apricots growing on the apricot tree.

I looked out the window and what did I see?
Two Mormon missionaries smiling at me.
They had brought me such a nice surprise--
The Book of Mormon right before my eyes.
I can take an hour to know if it's true.
Read it, study it, and pray about it too.
It is really so! And it seemed to be....
the greatest thing that ever happened to me!
